Best Collaboration award

We want everyone to take the opportunity to discuss your science with your colleges across the institution in hope to find a new collaboration. Therefore we are proud to announce award for best collaboration formed during the PhD day. Connections formed during the PhD day will be asked to write an abstract of max 500 words submit the idea before December 3rd. A jury put together by our sponsors will decide on one winning collaboration that receives 10 000 SEK in research funding as a start to make their idea a reality.

ScienceSlam

Best way to get everyone's attention to your great research and make them want to collaborate with you is of course to make an excellent 3 min presentation in the form of a science slam. The science slam will take place in Birgit Thilander together with some refreshments. To participate send email to sean.bennet [at] gu.se. A prize for best presentation is guaranteed!

Poster Session

Another great way to advertise your research is to make a scientific poster. There will be two dedicated poster sessions one after lunch and during fika. Take the opportunity to catch people's attention and find a new collaborator. Posters should preferably be in A1 but there will be a limited amount of space so reserve your's by sending an email to shikha.acharya [at] gu.se

After Work at Villa Medici

The best way to finish this day and the last chance to find a new collaborator is with afterwork at Sahlgrenska University student House Villa Medici. There will be Science Quiz, pizza, beer and more. A bus will take you from Academicum directly to Villa Medici but unfortunately only limited spaces can be offered to PhD students that is not a member of the Student Union SAKS. Therefore, the best way to guarantee your place is to become a member of SAKS and bring your identification.
